Most Important Rule

The basic transformation of an imperative is:

Reporting verb + object + to + V1

He said to me, “Open the door.”

→ He ordered me to open the door.

For a negative imperative:

Reporting verb + object + not to + V1

He said to me, “Don't open the door.”

→ He ordered me not to open the door.

But with different meanings, the reporting verb changes:

Order → ordered

Request → requested

Advice → advised

Warning → warned

Prohibition → forbade

Appeal → appealed to

Encouragement → encouraged

Invitation → invited

Permission → allowed

Suggestion → suggested

So, “said to” is not automatically converted to “ordered.” The correct reporting verb must express the speaker's intention and attitude.
